About the Australian Veterinary Association

The Australian Veterinary Association (AVA) is the peak professional body representing veterinary professionals and students across Australia.

For more than 100 years we have been the united voice of the veterinary profession. Veterinarians are among Australia's most trusted and respected professionals, dedicated to safeguarding animal health and welfare and supporting the communities they live in.

Our vision is a thriving veterinary profession, and our purpose is to build a vibrant future for veterinary professionals. At the AVA we champion the veterinary community, advance professional excellence, foster connectivity, and deliver exceptional member experiences to achieve our vision of a thriving profession.

About the Australian Cattle Veterinarians (ACV)

ACV come from private practice, government departments (including agriculture and quarantine services), research, pharmaceutical companies and more. They provide crucial services to the agricultural industry and rural communities. They play a key role in disease surveillance, securing our quarantine status and protecting ongoing productivity. Members also have a significant responsibility in managing and maintaining animal welfare.

But that's not all.... Over 46% of ACV members work in mixed practice attending to small animal, equine and small ruminant clients also and more than a third are business owners. They are a diverse bunch who have a particular interest in cattle veterinary medicine but, most of all, they love the collegiality and opportunity to get together with other rural and regional vets that face the same challenges and caseloads that they do.

The ACV is one of the AVA's most active special interest groups supporting this sector of vets across Australia.

About the Sheep, Camelid and Goat Veterinarians (SCGV)

The Sheep, Camelid and Goat Special Interest Group (SCGV) brings together veterinarians with an interest in small ruminant health, welfare and production. Members work across private practice, government, research, education and industry, supporting sheep, goat and camelid owners and producers throughout Australia.

SCGV members play an important role in advancing animal health and welfare, strengthening disease surveillance and supporting sustainable and productive livestock industries. The group provides opportunities for collaboration, professional development and continuing education, helping veterinarians share knowledge and remain connected with colleagues working across the sector.

Above all, SCGV is a welcoming and collegial community united by a shared passion for sheep, camelids and goats.

Hobart

Hobart is framed by the rugged figure of Kunanyi / Mount Wellington (accessible via Wellington Park) and the wide, flowing River Derwent, with wilderness lingering nearby, just beyond the mountain.

Aside from Hobart's cool mountain-and-river combo, the cultural and dining experiences are really what set Australia's second-oldest city apart. The underground Museum of Old and New Art, Mona, looms large in global art circles and on the itineraries of scores of travellers.

See Hobart from the water, or on foot around the waterfront, or even from the saddle of a bike on a mountain descent. Taste wine at urban wineries, and when the day is almost done, sip a whisky beside a dinosaur fossil, or settle into a cosy bar inside the walls of a 19th-century hospital.
